Tax Assessor-Collector's Statement on Delinquent Tax Lawsuit Against Nate Paul's Companies

AUSTIN, TX – Nate Paul has shown a disregard for playing by the rules – that includes paying his property taxes. Today, the Travis County Attorney filed lawsuits to collect delinquent taxes against eight businesses owned by Nate Paul.

After each payment deadline, tax office employees spend months sending letters and making phone calls to Mr. Paul, and the delays and partial payments are no longer enough. He has not responded to our call for him to make payment in full or make arrangements to begin a payment plan to address this debt of over $2 million. Our local taxing units depend on property taxes to plan and build infrastructure like roads and bridges, pay our teachers and public employees and do the critical work of government.

When I see taxpayers interacting with our office, I see those who are doing their very best to follow the law and play by the rules. I do not take this approach of a lawsuit lightly and hope that Mr. Paul, or one of his business representatives, will respond by paying the delinquent taxes.

The Travis County taxpayers deserve a response.
